

Judging criteria for a craftwork competition at the Narrogin Agricultural Show, the judging criteria might encompass a range of factors to evaluate the quality, creativity, and craftsmanship of the entries.:

1. Creativity and Originality: Judges will assess the level of creativity and originality demonstrated in the craftwork.
2. Skill and Technique: The craftsmanship and technical skill involved in creating the craftwork will be evaluated. This includes factors such as precision in cutting, stitching, painting, or other techniques relevant to the craft category.
3. Use of Materials: Judges may consider how effectively and creatively the materials have been used. This includes the choice of materials, their quality, and how well they complement the overall design of the craftwork.
4. Attention to Detail: The level of attention to detail, including neatness, finishing, and overall presentation, will be assessed.
5. Aesthetic Appeal: The visual appeal of the craftwork is important. Judges will consider factors such as colour coordination, balance of elements, visual impact, and overall attractiveness of the finished piece.
6. Functionality (if applicable): For craft items that serve a functional purpose (e.g., clothing, household items), judges may evaluate how well the item fulfills its intended function while maintaining aesthetic appeal and quality craftsmanship.
7. Theme Relevance (if applicable): If there's a specific theme for the competition, judges will consider how well the craftwork aligns with the theme.
8. Innovation and Contemporary Relevance: Judges may also look for elements of innovation or contemporary relevance in the craftwork. This could include incorporating sustainable practices, addressing current social or environmental issues, or using modern design trends in a thoughtful way.
9. Overall Impression: Judges will consider the overall impression of the craftwork, taking into account all the above criteria to determine how well-rounded, exceptional, and memorable the entry is compared to other submissions.

These criteria aim to provide a comprehensive evaluation framework that encourages participants to showcase their artistic talents, craftsmanship, and creativity in a variety of craft categories.
