

Judging criteria for a floriculture competition at the Narrogin Agricultural Show, the judging criteria would revolve around the quality, variety, arrangement, and presentation of flowers and plants.:

1. Quality of Flowers: Judges will assess the overall quality of the flowers used in the arrangement, considering factors such as freshness, vibrancy of colours, uniformity, and health of the blooms.
2. Variety and Selection: The variety and diversity of flowers and plants used will be evaluated. Entries that showcase a wide range of species, colours, textures, and shapes.
3. Design and Composition: Judges will look at the design and composition of the floral arrangement, considering aspects such as balance, proportion, symmetry, focal points, and overall aesthetic appeal.
4. Creativity and Originality: The level of creativity and originality demonstrated in the arrangement will be assessed.
5. Technique and Skill: The technical skill and expertise in arranging flowers will be evaluated. Judges may consider factors such as the precision of cuts, proper use of floral foam or other support structures, and skilful manipulation of flowers and foliage.
6. Condition of Foliage: In addition to flowers, the condition and quality of foliage and greenery used in the arrangement will be considered. Healthy, lush foliage enhances the overall appearance of the arrangement.
7. Harmony and Colour Scheme: Judges will assess how well the colours of the flowers and foliage harmonize with each other. A thoughtful and well-executed colour scheme can greatly enhance the visual impact of the arrangement.
8. Container and Presentation: The choice of container or vase, as well as the overall presentation of the arrangement, will be evaluated. Entries that demonstrate appropriate scale, suitable container selection, and effective use of accessories (if any).
9. Maintenance and Longevity: If applicable, judges may consider the longevity and durability of the arrangement. Entries that show good maintenance practices and have a longer shelf life may receive favourable consideration.
10. Overall Impression: Judges will consider the overall impression of the floral arrangement, taking into account all the above criteria to determine how well-rounded, visually striking, and professionally executed the entry is compared to others.

These criteria aim to ensure a comprehensive evaluation of the floriculture competition, encouraging participants to showcase their floral design skills, creativity, and knowledge of horticulture.
